

What should be the regulators role in the quest for continuous offshore improvement?

Steve Walker – UK HSE

IRF Conference 2010

Vancouver

1. Encouraging “beyond compliance” culture

- Setting a legislative climate and regime that demands continuous improvement
 - Goal setting v Prescriptive
- Adopting sophisticated regulatory approaches
 - Dialogue
 - “creative tension” in our regulation
- Encouraging strong workforce involvement

2. Being a catalyst for learning

- Demand companies to learn from their own performance and experience
- Encourage and provide opportunities to enable offshore companies to learn from others performance
- Capture and promoted good practise as well as bad

3. Being dissatisfied!

- Never happy, never satisfied
- Asking the challenging questions
- Stretching targets and aspirations

Role of regulators in continuous improvement?

1. Encouraging “beyond compliance” culture
2. Being a catalyst for learning
3. Always being dissatisfied!
